A: The answer is a simple combination of Exceptions and try/catch. The first thing to check is you are actually receiving the message back and not simply crashing. You can do this by putting in a retry loop and trying to read from the socket in case the exe crashes. import os from socket import * # P1, P2, P3 are your prms for checkbox input("") #initial prompt try: try: s = socket(AF_INET,SOCK_STREAM) s.connect(('localhost', 9090)) except: print "Couldn't connect" print "trying again in 3 secs" sleep(3) s = socket(AF_INET,SOCK_STREAM) s.connect(('localhost', 9090)) continue print "connected" data = s.recv(1024) print data if "Welcome" in data: keys = ["P1","P2","P3"] try: for c in keys: print s.recv(1024) if c in s.recv(1024) and "1" in s.recv(1024) or "2" in s.recv(1024) or "3" in s.recv(1024): s.send("greeting") except: print "exception"

Click Start > All Programs > Accessories > System Tools > System Restore. Click the "System Restore" option. Select your most recent restore point under "System Restore." After installation is complete, reboot. A: Change the compatibility mode to the 64-bit. Tools > Options > Advanced > Change the compatibility mode Select AMD64 Restart the game.
